

Dear Special Wish Friend,

Challenges....we all face them. Whether it be losing a job, losing a house, or in our case, having the office of A Special Wish burglarized a few months ago. However, none of these come close to the challenges the families we work with face each and every day. The heartbreak of having a child with a life-threatening disorder is something many of us cannot begin to imagine. The reality is, our wish families do face this challenge.

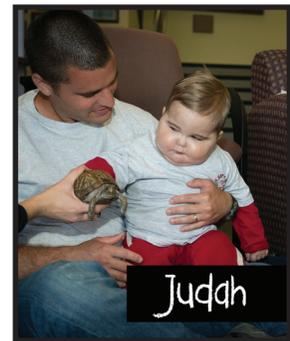

A Special Wish Foundation can help ease that burden and bring joy to a child facing a life-threatening disorder by granting his or her wish. We grant a variety of wishes from a trip to Disney World, meeting a favorite celebrity, a trip to the beach for the first time, or playground equipment, just to name a few.

As many of us are busy planning for the approaching holiday season, a time of gift-giving, sharing, “get-togethers”, and other things which lend a festive air to this special time of year, our hearts go out to two of our recent “special” wish families who will face the challenge of the holidays without their child.

One parent wrote, “Judah is in Heaven. We are so thankful for your involvement in his story and the blessings you brought our family”.

Another wrote, “Your Foundation sent us on a trip that meant the absolute world to our family. It allowed us to forget our problems...if only for a week. We will be forever grateful to A Special Wish Foundation”. The memories these families have of their child’s wish experience is something that will, and does, last forever.

Would you consider helping to grant some of the wishes before us during this holiday season? Together, we can continue to make wonderful memories for these very deserving children and their families.

Thank you so much for taking the time to read our letter. An envelope is enclosed, in the event you are willing to help us grant the wishes of these very “special” children, because...some wishes can’t wait!

We wish you and yours a very Merry Christmas and a blessed New Year!

Sincerely,

Ramona Fickle, Founder
